WIFE SUES ANOTHER WOMAN

MRS. EUGENE WAUGH WANTS $100,000 FROM CLARA PETERS.

Alleging That the Said Clara, Knowing Waugh to Be a Married Man, Willfully and Wickedly Gained His Affections—Denial From the Defendant's Mother.

Clara Louise Peters of Washington, D. C., was named yesterday as defendant in a suit in the Supreme Court, in which Mrs. Harry R. Waugh demands $100,000 for the alienation of the affections of her husband, Eugene Waugh, who is interested in a chemical company and who formerly lived with his wife at Summit, N. J.

The complaint in the suit was filed yesterday by Romaine H. Crosby of 27 William street, counsel for Mrs. Waugh. Mr. Crosby was the law partner of Mr. McAdoo before the latter became Police Commissioner. It was a short complaint, setting forth the merely formal details necessary in such an action. It recited that the plaintiff and her husband were married about twenty years ago, and lived until recently at Summit. Mrs. Waugh asserts that in April last while she was living with and being supported by her husband, Clara Louise Peters, well knowing these facts, "wrongfully intending to injure this plaintiff as to deprive her of her said husband's protection, society and support, willfully, wickedly and maliciously gained the affections of Eugene Waugh and induced him to have intimate relations with her."

Mrs. Waugh also sets forth in her complaint that the defendant keeps her husband from her, and that they have been together at Little Silver, N. J. Upon the statement of Mr. Crosby that Clara Louise Peters cannot be found after due and diligent search, Justice Blanton in Special Term, Part II, of the Supreme Court, yesterday signed an order authorizing the service of the summons to be made by publication, and by sending a copy of the papers to her last known address, 614 East Capitol street, Washington, D. C. Peters is the wife of Eugene Peters, a wealthy Washingtonian, who is confined in a private insane asylum near Baltimore. She has a beautiful home at 614 East Capitol street. Mrs. Peters was Miss Mackay of Rochester, N. Y., and she is now at Peterboro, Ont., Canada, with her sister.

Eugene Peters came by inheritance into a controlling interest in the Norris Peters Co., a prosperous engraving concern here, of which his uncle, Norris Peters, was the founder. That was about six years ago. He suddenly found himself rich and proceeded to enjoy his wealth. He married Miss Mackay, the wedding, it is said, having taken place in New Orleans, and they started on their wedding tour in a steam yacht which Peters purchased. They came to Washington on the yacht, because of the character of extravagance here which soon attracted attention. He literally threw money away and made all sorts of purchases. He and his wife lived at the East Capitol street house, which, while not in the fashionable part of town, is handsome and was very elegantly furnished and maintained.

About five years ago proceedings for the appointment of a guardian for Peters and his estate were instituted by his aunts, who alleged that he was of unsound mind. The trial of the case excited much attention locally. Peters took part in the proceedings and showed that he had a keen wit. He was ultimately adjudged insane and committed to an asylum, and the affairs of the Norris Peters Company were put in the hands of trustees.

Mrs. Mackay, the mother of Mrs. Peters, is now at the East Capitol street house. When she was told of the filing of the suit she said that the proceeding was outrageous. She had never even heard of any Mrs. Waugh, she said, and she knew that her daughter did not know any man by that name.

"For the first two years after my daughter's marriage," Mrs. Mackay said, "she and her husband lived together very happily. Then Mr. Peters went insane, and it became necessary to send him to an asylum. He is now in an institution near Baltimore. For months after he was sent away my daughter was ill—so ill that no one but a member of the family was allowed to see her at all."

"Four years ago, when Mr. Peters lost his mind, I broke up my home in Rochester and came to live here. During that time I have been with my daughter almost constantly, and even on the few occasions that she left home for brief periods, my other daughter has no friends in the charge that she has alienated the affections of anybody's husband. I know to be absolutely untrue. Following my daughter's affliction, we three women were absolutely alone in this big house, and I have often thought that it would be a Godsend if someone came. I know my daughter has no friends in Summit, and I feel that this charge against her is outrageous."

"Why didn't that woman sue my daughter for $100,000,000? It would be just as reasonable. She has no money except a small allowance that is made to her from the property of Mr. Peters, which is all tied up. Mr. Peters is a very wealthy man, but not a cent of his money can my daughter get her hands on, except the small amount that is allowed her."

Eugene Peters' estate is worth a good bit more than $100,000.

Five State Prison Buildings Burned. LA PORTE, Ind., Sept. 17.—Fire to-day destroyed the five five-story buildings inside the State prison walls at Michigan City, causing a loss of over $100,000. The fire started from a dry kiln chair factory, according to a statement by the authorities, although rumors are in circulation that the convicts fired the building.
